

Pedagogical Phonetics

Prerequisite: None

Credit Hours: (2)

This course is concerned with describing speech organs, the mechanisms of speech production, phonetic transcription, and a number of possible ways of transcribing sounds. The course focuses on a comprehensive description of syllabic patterns, phonological processes, allophones, and phonotactics. Differentiations of these systematic procedures in Farsi and English, and the usage of this information in teaching English pronunciation are under consideration.